Hon, John W. McSweeney, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, then came forward with his report and was cheered to the echo. On the reading of the first two planks regarding the death of Hancock and Tilden, Robert Kuebnert moved a rising vote which was heartly given. Every clause and every plank was cheered and the whole adopted with great enthusiasm. It is as follows:

THE PLATFORM. The Democracy of Ohio, in convention assembled, congratulates the country upon the fact that the party of people has been restored to power, and with it the promises of its leaders and hopes of its followers are being fully realized.

We cordially endorse the administration of President Cleveland, as we believe the people of all parties are con-vinced that his official conduct has been marked by great courage and

The Democrats of Ohio express their sincere sorrow and acknowledge their great loss by the recent death of that distinguished soldier, orator and statesman, Gen. Durbin Ward. We bear testimony to his courage, integrity and patrotism, and realize that we are indebted to him for wise counsel and fearless advocacy of our cause in all our campaigns for many years. We join with the Democrats of the We join with the Democrats of the nation in mourning over the still more recent loss of that illustrions man, Samuel J. Tilden, who by common consent was for many years the leader of the Democracy of America, and who was honestly and fairly elected the nineteenth President of the United States.

We also deeply lament the death within a short period of time of those other distinguished Democrats, Thomas A. Hendricks, the idol and trusted leader for many years of the Democrats of Indiana, and at the time of his death Vice President of the United States; also of George B. McClellan, Horatio Seymour and Winfield Scott Hancock, who have all been our leaders in con-tests for the highest office within the gift of our people, and whose courage, wisdom and patriotism have made them dear to every true American.

The names and the career of thes men remind us that as long as we fol-low their examples and imitate their virtues so long shall we have brilliant leadership and our cause and party be preserved.

Taxes should not be collected beyond the needs of government economically administered; and we hereby reaffirm the principles laid down in our last State and National platforms upon the tariff question, and demand a thorough and just revision of existing tariff laws in accordance with these principles.

We heartily approve the policy of paying out the surplus revenues hereto-fore accumulated in the Treasury, on the interest-bearing debt.

Every dollar of unnecessary taxation, State or national, is robbery, and in derogation of the rights of the people; an unnecessary surplus in the treasury is an incentive to corruption and Congressional jobbery, and an oppression of the people whose money is there, lock-ed up beyond their control.

We denounce the attempt to change the measure of values, in the face of the world's vast debts, from gold and silver to gold alone, as an act of monstrous in-justice, and demand that both gold and silver, as established by the constitution shall be maintained as the basis of our money system.

We approve the action of the Demo-cratic House of Congress in forfeiting and restoring to the public domain, for homesteads for actual settlers, nearly a hundred millions of acres of unearned lands heretofore granted by Republican lands in the United States.

We approve the prompt, firm and vigorous action of the State department and the present Democratic administration in the protection of American citizens in foreign counties.

In common with the Democracy of the country, we express our sympathy with Ireland and her great struggle for home rule. The friends of liberty throughout the world are deeply inter-ested in this effort which the supporters of Gladstone and Parnell are now making to give the right to govern them-selves to the long-suffering and greatly wronged Irish people, and we sincerely hope the struggle of Ireland for her just rights shall be crowned with complete

We denounce the usurnations of the Republican Lieutenant Governor and less than a quorum of Republican Senators of the State Senate as an act of revolution and a grave crime against the constitution of Ohio, and a precedent too dangerous to permit to pass un-condemed by the people of the State.

We demand that every safe guard of the ballot shall be maintained, that the votes of the people shall be honestly cast and honestly counted, and that every crime against the purity of the ballot box shall be promptly and vigor-ously punished, by whomsoever com-

We denounce and condemn the partizan reorganization of the penal and benevolent institutions of the State not made with a view to increase the effici-ency of their management, but for the purpose of controlling their revenues and incidental powers for partisan pur-poses, thus dragging down to the basest uses the willing gifts of the people for the amelioration of the unfortunate.

We hereby express our unbounded confidence in the integrity and Democracy of the Democratic members of the Senate of the 67th General Assembly of Believing that the evils growing out of the traffic in intoxicationg liquors can best be provided against by a wellregulated license system, we renew our declaration in favor of an amendment to the constitution that will permit judicious regulation of the traffic, and Judicious regulation of the traffic, and redress the abuses growing out of it without destroying the principles of personal liberty or the right of private judgment.

We heartily endorse the course of she Hon, H. B. Payne as the representative of the State in the Senate of the United States. The purity and integrity of his

The purity and integrity of his character are well known to the people of Ohio, and we rejoice that the Republican Senate of the United States refused to become the medium through which the baffled and malicious Republican politicians sought to injure the fair fame of a man whose life is honorably inter-woven with the history of the State for

TRIBUTE TO DURBIN WARD.

Ohio: At a meeting of the State Central Committee and other Democrats, held at Columbus on the 10th day of June, 1886, the undersigned were appointed a committee to prepare and submit to the State Convention a tribute to the memory of the late General Durbin Ward. In compliance with this sad duty wask your adoption of the following:

GEO. HOADLY, THOS. E. POWELL, JOHN O' NIEL. WM. LAWRENCE, J. C. McKemey.

The death of Durbin Ward has brought pain and sorrow to the hearts of all who knew him, and has withdrawn from the Democratic party the persuasive logic of one of its most eloquent champions. A youth passed under Whig influence was followed by a riged scrutiny of their value which resulted in a profonud conviction of the unwisdom of the policy of the party in which he has been educated. His riper years though taught him the dangers of power, and of the value to liberty of constitutional guarantees. At a time when they were not popular in Ohio, he became convinced of the truth in history and of the worth in political philosophy of those doctrines of Constitutional law and personal freedom of which Thomas Jefferson was the expositor, of the necessity for the strict construction of all delegations of power, and of tenacious adherence to and support of all reservations of liberty. He thus became, in early manhood, a Democrat, and such he remained till death. He never wearled or relayed his efforts within the wearied or relaxed his efforts within the Democratic party to guide it in wise di-rections, or before the public to defend its principles and maintain its just claim to supremacy.

When patriotism carried him into the ranks of his country's defenders as a private soldier, where merit promoted he did him to a General's command, he did not relax in his conviction that war was logically defensible only as a means of peace: that success in arms could not change the principles of American lib-erty, enlarge the letter of the constitu-tion, affect its spirit, or revoke its guar-antees. At the end of the war, he laid aside the sword he had wellded against secession, to espouse the cause of reconciliation.

Ambitious, conscious of capacity for high public service, as a statesman as well as a soldier, he never sought suc-cess by the arts of the damagogue, or the concealment of his thoughts. He preferred defeat with integrity to success by false pretenses. Sensitive to public opinion and desir-ous of public favor beyond most men, the only method of gaining it he knew or ever practiced, was to present with all the force of a logical mind in his best phrase those truths of political philoso-phy, which seemed to him of highest value, and likeliest to create the ideal.

Animated by gratitude for his labors, by admiration of his great intellectual powers, of his life of rectitude in thought and act, and by personal affec-tion, the Democracy of Ohio sorrow in his death, and offer to his widow their respectful tribute of sympathy.

J. B. Townsend, of Lima, made a fulsome speech, after which the report of Powell was adopted and incorporated in the proceedings of the convention. The names of candidates was then called. Those of Henry Apthorp, Wm. Bell, B. G. Young and John McBride were presented for Secretary of State. McBride was nominated on the 2d bal-Follet was nominated by acclamation on the resolutions. He lauded his memory in an eloquent manner and was loudly cheered, and closed by say ing he hoped the resolution would be heartily endorsed.

The resolution was adopted. The usual vote of thanks was extended, and there being no further business before the convention it stood adjourned.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON FOR AUG. 29, 1886-LESSON NINTH.

Explanatory Notes by Rev. John Hall, D. D. LL.D., of New York-From The Sunday School World-Subject: "Jesus Comforting His Disciples."

Few passages of God's word have been more loved than the words of our lesson. Life has been called a "vale of tears." Young eyes looking on life cannot see this, but there comes a time when illness, poverty, bereavement and expected death fill the heart with trouble. Then the best and dearest help is the Son of God saying, "Let not your heart be troubled." The teacher will naturally recall the events the suppose instituted his recall the scene: the supper instituted, his death realized, Judas gone out, Peter warned, all the company subdued and sorrowful, and sus passing over his own coming sufferings thinking of the sorrow of his friends. This consolation given by Jesus to the disciples in view of the shock it would be to them to have him quit them is made doubly valuable by the questions of Thomas and Philip and the answers to them. They speak for us, as it were, and the replies they get make the truth more clear and precise to us.

First we look at the direct comfort. V. 1.

Their hearts might well be troubled. "What is to come of our hopes? What shall we do if he goes away? Whither shall we turn? We have quitted all for him—he has been everything to us. Now, in presence of all the enemies he and we have made, how desolate we shall be! We staked all on him and General Thomas E. Powell presented when he was buried, as we see in Luke univ.

The usual Parliamentary rules to govern and a majority of all votes east to nominate.

To the Democratic State Convention of Ohio:

The usual Parliamentary rules to govern the following, which was received with which should have redesmed farsel." No wonder that they were "sad" as they talked over the past (Luke xxiv, 17). He bids them keep the trouble away from their hearts. They had general faith in God. Like devout Hebrews believing the Scriptures they be-lieved in God's power to protect and fulfill his promises. Now he says, "Bolieve also in

(1) God had testified to him by mira and voices from heaven (John xii, 28), and by the fulfilment of prophecy in him (Luke xxiv,

(2) He came to do God's will, as his an sador and representative; God was behind him, and would make good all that he said in (3) He was himself divine. This is brought out later (vs. 10, 11), and will be explained.

out later (vs. 10, 11), and will be explained. How much depends on believing!

V. 2. They would be friendless and homeless here below, but "in my father's house are many mansions"—a word we get from the Latin and meaning, not rich, separate residences, but abiding places (as in the margin of the revision). He would not have drawn them after him if they were to be unprovided for. He was leaving them, as they knew to their crief, but it was to prepare a knew to their grief, but it was to prepare a place for them. He opened the door into heaven; he brought in the righteousness that gave a title to it; he entered as their fore-runner (Hebrews vi, 19-20). These three things are included. The "Father's house" is one figure; others are a "city" (Hebrews xi, 10-16) and "within the vail" (Hebrews vi, 19,

V. 3 proves that he thought of the "preparing" in connection with his dying, rising and ascension. "If I do this, I will come again." This is the second advent, many aspects of which we too much neglect. You shall not be forgotten or orphans. "I will receive you," etc. Acts i, 11 will show how this west believes. was believed. Paul sets this truth before the Colossians (Colossians iii, 4). Revelations iii, 21 should be examined in this connection. V. 4. He had always told them of this, and now recalls it. His death, the mode of it, and the ends to be served, had all been an nounced. He no doubt meant to draw them out by these words.

out by these words.

V. 5. Thomas was slow. See John xx, 24,
26. He was, moreover, possibly agitated. So he takes up the Master's words, "How can we know the way!" It is likely that the emphasis is to be on "we." The Revision reads in v. 4, "whither I go ye know the way." Thomas took it that they were to follow him and be with him; but how could they do that if they did not know whither he was going? This explains the answer of our Lord in

V. 6, "To go Thomas, into my Father's house is to go by me, for I am the way," etc. In Christ, we are in the way; not in him, we are out of the way. In Christ, we are in the truth; out of him, we are in deadly error. In Christ, we are in the life; out of him, we are still dead in sins. This rule is absolute. "No man cometh unto the Father, but by me." See on this John x, 9; viii, 32; Eph. ii, 18;

V. 7 is not so clear until we have thought it over. Christ was the image, in feeling and character, of the Father. If they had knowni. e., fully comprehended—him they would have comprehended the Father, and the way to his house, which it was needful to provide, but they would "from henceforth"—i. e., not from that moment, but from the time—near at hand—when the Comforter would come, sent by Christ, and reveal the Father. See VB. 16,17, 20.

Now we come to Philip's request. He seems to have been "matter-of-fact" (see John vi, 7) in the turn of his mind. Hence

(V. 8), "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us," will be enough for us, will satisfy us. Now we may think of the Father in two respects: (1) In his nature, the invisible God, and (2) in his attributes. The former none could see (John i, 18); the latter Jesus had shown, and Philip might well be gently blamed — reproached mildly here — for not knowing this. Hence the words
(V. 9), "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." So the Master said in John xii, 45.

There are three persons in the God-head. It is not that God is the Father when we think of him in heaven, the Son when we think of him on earth, and the Holy Ghost when we think of him as dwelling in us. If this were so there would be no sense in Jesus on earth praying to the Father, or being deserted or forsaken by him, or sending the Holy Spirit. (See Eph. ii, 18, again.) The mode of three in One we do not know; the facts are strongly asserted and applied in Scripture (Matt.

V. 10. The "in" of this verse relates to feeling, character and purpose. This is shown by the second and third clauses, I speak the words he would have spoken, and I do the deeds he approves. Entire unity of aim is the point stated. They need not be afraid of finding the Father in anywise different from the Son. An agent may make p which the principal will not own or be bound by; but it cannot be so here.

V. 11. The first element of comfort (v. 1) is in believing. The remedy for Philip's weakness is in the same direction, "believe." Faith admits of extension. Hence the need of getting more knowledge. And it admits of increase ("Lord increase our faith," Luke xvii, 5). The works Jesus had done in teaching and saving men, rather than miracles, proved his oneness with the Father, as he had explained before (John v. 36). This leads on to another point: I am one in mind with GoJ and do his works. You will become one in mind with me and do my works, as in v. 12. Strange as it may seem, they would even do more than he did. This does not refer to miracles, but to spiritual results. There never was a Pentecost in his ministry.

V. 13. And as a part of this oneness with him prayer would be effectual. They would ask things according to his mind, and he would grant them. This glorifies the Father, who grants, as promised, what believers ask in Jesus name.

V. 14. To make this confidence strong (and and saving men, rather than miracles, prove who grants, as promised, what believers ask in Jesus' name.

V. 14. To make this confidence strong (and how weak it commonly is in disciples!) the Master repeats and emphasizes "if ye," etc. Prayer is not dictation to God, nor a demand of right. It is submission to Him. It asks with a qualification like this: "If this is right in itself and best for me," and it leaves all the conditions to God as to time, means, etc. Jesus, as the Son of God, answers prayer.

From this lesson the following points may be selected for fixing in the mind:

(1) How gentle and unselfish Jesus was! He thought of the disciples when He might well have been thinking only of Himself. He is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

(2) How vital is faith for comfort, for strength, for power in prayer, for conformity to Christ!

(3) How important is the word of God! Fnith cometh by hearing. It is bound to the word, as the cable to the anchor at the bottom of the sea.

(4) How gracious is Jesus, bearing with infirmities and answering questions! Go to him always.

Johnny, (just after Sunday school) "Say, Jack, what is a sockdolager?" Jack—"Why dont you know? It's what they sing in church when they get ready to go home. The minister gets up and says: 'Now let us sing the sockdol ager.'"—Ex.

Natural Gas in Ohio.

Professor Ed. Orton, State geologist, has given much attenion to the subject of natural gas in Ohio, and anything from such high scientific authority will no doubt be read with interest. The Professor has examined the many gas wells in the State, among them the remarkable one lately drilled a mile or two north of Bairdstown, Wood county. In referring to this well, Professor Orten who made the measurements last week,

Thirty miles due south of Toledo, on a lonesome farm in Bloom township, surrounded on all sides by the original forests, and more than half a mile from any occupied dwelling, the greatest volume of gas ever sent out of any well in the State is now blazing. The Karg well of Findlay, has thus far held undisput-ed precedence in the new gas field, but it must henceforth be content with second place. The daily yield of the Karg well has been found by repeated measurements to be 12,080,000 cubic "Measured on the same plan and by the same instruments, the new well is found to yield 12,421,968 cubic feet each found to yield 12,421,968 cubic feet each day. The excess above the Karg well would of itself be counted a large supply in many fields, viz., 341,968 cubic feet per day. Reduced to other terms of value the daily yield of the new well is equal in heating power to 400 tons of Pittsburg coal, or to the coal contained in a train of twenty loaded cars. This is the theoretical value. Practically, the ms has a great advantage, and the gas has a great advantage, and would be equal to a much larger quan-

"In geological condition, the new well duplicates very closely the Findlay field. Like the Karg well it is situated on the edge of a steep and heavy descent of the strata, though not of the surface. In a mile to the westward the rocks are found to dip 120 feet or more. The slope is somewhat greater at Findlay, but it is related to the gas wells in the same way. The Trenton limestone in the new well lies but 1,041 feet below the surface, or 300 feet below the sea, which is the shal-lowest depth at which it has been found at any point in the new productive territory. The confinement or utilization of this new flood of power is impera-tively demanded by public if not private

A Dark Mystery.

Some of the colored citizens of Dallas, Texas, are very much disturbed about the possible approach of small-pox. The following conversation between two of them was overheard on Elm street:

"I has about made up my mind to hab myself vaccinated agin. Has you eber had yourself vaccinated a second time before?'

"Yes, sah; I'se been vaccinated the second time free or four times before, and hit tuck ebery time ceptin' de fust As the object of the colored conversationalists is not to obtain informa-tion, but to merely hear themselves talk, they parted perfectly satisfied with the interview. But what the party of the second part actually intended to say is a dark and cloudy mystery.—Texas Siftings.
